LESSONS

Successful European Colonies in the New World

Advisor: Kathleen A. Duval, Associate Professor of History, The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, National Humanities Center Fellow. Copyright National Humanities Center, 2015

Framing Question

Why did some European attempts to establish colonies in the New World succeed while most failed?

Understanding

Early European colonies in the New World succeeded only if local Indians allowed them to and if they were lucky. When European settlers arrived in the New World, they often placed their colonies among people who had established complex webs of political relationships that included both alliances and rivalries. If Indians tolerated settlements they could easily have wiped out, they may have done so not because they were afraid of the settlers or kindly disposed to them or militarily weak but rather because they saw them as useful adjuncts in their own internal power struggles.

Text

George Percy, Observations Gathered out of a Discourse of the Plantation of the Southern Colony in Virginia by the English, 1608. (excerpts)

Virginia, 1624, detail: Jamestown and Paspahegh (to the west) on the James River

Background

These excerpts from Percy's Observations chronicles the first six months of Jamestown's existence, from April to September, 1607, a period during which the colony survived only because the Indians allowed it to. Luck played its role in 1610, when all the remaining colonists, fleeing the utter failure of Jamestown in four small boats, encountered, at the mouth of the James River, a re-supply fleet headed their way. On board were three hundred new settlers and a new governor, Lord De la Warr, who ordered the fleeing boats to turn around. With fresh manpower Jamestown began the slow painful process of establishing itself as a profitable agricultural colony.

At the time of Jamestown's founding George Percy was just one of several noblemen among the colonists. He later served as governor of the colony. The original manuscript of his Observations has been lost. It was published in 1625 as part of a larger collection of accounts of travel in the Americas. When analyzing any primary document, it is important to consider the author's motives in writing it. Apparently, Percy wrote Observations simply to record his experience in Virginia. It seems to have been intended for readers interested simply in learning more about the fascinating "new world." What matters here is what Percy was not doing: he was not trying to recruit settlers, nor was he trying to raise money to support Jamestown. How might these considerations shape our interpretation of his Observations?

The Indians Percy and his fellow settlers encountered were wellorganized politically under the leadership of Chief Powhatan. He

Contextualizing Questions

- 1. What kind of text are we dealing with?
- 2. When was it written?
- 3. Who wrote it?
- 4. For what audience was it intended?
- 5. For what purpose was it written?

commanded about thirty tribes, yet each local tribe had its own chief or werowance, who was subordinate to Powhatan and who had to pay him tribute. Percy and the settlers traveled from town to town meeting these chiefs. Like most seventeenth-century peoples, the Indians believed they were the center of the world. To them, the English newcomers were needy itinerants, not colonizers, and they expected to call the shots.

Text Analysis

Excerpt 1

[I]f the beginners of this action [the Virginia Company] do carefully further [support] us, the Country being so fruitful, it would be as great a profit to the Realm of England, as the Indies to the King of Spain. If this River which we have found had been discovered in the time of war with Spain, it would have been a commodity [profit] to our Realm, and a great annoyance to our enemies.

1. What do Percy's words here tell us about English reasons for founding Jamestown?
2. What do you think he thought of the Spanish?
3. Judging from Percy's statement, what role do the Indians who inhabit the region play in the plans of the English?
Type wet 0

Excerpt 2

April 1607 (soon after arrival)

- [1] At night, when we were going aboard, there came the Savages creeping upon all fours, from the Hills, like Bears, with their Bows in their mouths, [who] charged us very desperately in the faces, hurt Captain Gabriel Archer in both his hands, and a sailor in two places of the body very dangerous. After they had spent their Arrows, and felt the sharpness of our shot, they retired into the Woods with a great noise, and so left us.
- [2] We marched some three or four miles further into the woods, where we saw great smokes of fire. We marched to those smokes and found that the Savages had been there burning down the grass, as we thought either to make their plantation there [to clear the land for farming], or else to give signs to bring their forces.
- [3] Thirtieth day, we came with our ships to Cape Comfort; where we saw five Savages running on the shore. Presently the Captain caused the shallop [small open boat] to be manned; so rowing to the shore, the Captain called to them in sign of friendship, but they were at first very timorous, until they saw the Captain lay his hand on his heart; upon that they laid down their Bows and Arrows,

4. What does this passage tell us about how w	vell the English understand the Indians?
5. Why would the English expect the Indians to	o attack them?
Excerpt 3
	ras a many of other Savages which directed us to their Town, where we were first a Land they made a doleful noise, laying their faces to the ground, scratching been at their Idolatry [worship]. When they had ended their Ceremonies, they wen ipon the ground: the chiefest of them sat all in a rank; the meanest [lowest, poorest their bread which they make of their Maize or Gennea [Guinea] wheat. They would hich we did on a Mat right against them. After we were well satisfied they gave us o tificially of earth as ours are, but far bigger, with the bowl fashioned together with a ey showed us, in welcome, their manner of dancing, which was in this fashion. One ing one hand against another, all the rest dancing about him, shouting, howling, ic tricks and faces, making noise like so many Wolves or Devils.
6. How might you account for the hospitality sh	own the English by Powhatan's son only days after Indians attacked the settlers?
o. Now might you account for the hospitality sh	own the English by Fownataria son only days after malans attacked the settlers:
7. How might the tribes in the Powhatan Confe	ederation interpret the fact that one of Powhatan's sons entertained the English?
S .
8. What does this passage tell us about Europ	ean perceptions of Indians and their understanding of Indian culture?
Excerpt 4
May 1607

and came very boldly to us, making signs to come ashore to their Town, which is called by the Savages Kecoughtan ["great town," the River in his Camoe. He seemed to take displeasure of our being with the Paspihes. He would fain [gladly] have had us to come to his Town. The Captain was unwilling. Seeing that the day was so far spent, he returned back to his ships for that night.  [6] The next day, being the fifth of May, the Werowance of Rapahanna sent a Messenger to have us come to him. We entertained the said Messenger and gave him trifle (trinkers) which pleased him. We manned our shallop with Muslets and Targatiers (floor soldiers amed with shields) sufficiently, this said Messenger guided us where our determination was to go. When we landed, the Werowance of Rapahanna came down to the water side with all his train followers) playing on a Flute made of a Reed He entertained us in so modest a prout fashion, as though he had been a Prince of civil government, holding his countenance (keeping his bearing) without laughter or any such ill behavior.  9. What does the scene in the Paspihe village — an entertainment with "much welcome" interrupted by an "old Savage's rant — suggest about the Paspihe's response to the arrival of the English? Compare the Paspihe's welcome with that which the English received in the village of Kecoughtan (see paragraphs 3 and 4) and in the Raphanna village.  10. What does the response of the Rapahanna's chief to the presence of the English among the Paspihe suggest about relations between the two tribes?  11. Why might the Raphanna chief have been displeased that the English visited the Paspihe village before visiting his?  Excerpt 5  12. Why might it have been advantageous to Powhatan to permit rivalries among the tribes in his confederation?  Excerpt 5  13. Why after some Indians entertained the English cordially, would the Apamatica confront them "in a most warlike manner"?

said Messenger, and gave him trifles [trinkets] which pleased him. We manned our shallop with Muskets and Targatiers [foor soldiers armed with shields] sufficiently; this said Messenger guided us where our determination was to go. When we landed, the Werowance of Rapahanna came down to the water side with all his train [followers] playing on a Flute made of a Reed He entertained us in so modest a proud fashion, as though he had been a Prince of civil government, holding his countenance [keeping his bearing] without laughter or any such ill behavior.  9. What does the scene in the Paspihe village — an entertainment with "much welcome" interrupted by an "old Savage's" rant — suggest about the Paspihe's response to the arrival of the English? Compare the Paspihe's welcome with that which the English received in the village of Kecoughtan (see paragraphs 3 and 4) and in the Raphanna village.  10. What does the response of the Rapahanna's chief to the presence of the English among the Paspihe suggest about relations between the two tribes?  11. Why might the Raphanna chief have been displeased that the English visited the Paspihe village before visiting his?  12. Why might it have been advantageous to Powhatan to permit rivalries among the tribes in his confederation?  Except 5  [7] The tighth day of May we discovered [explored] up the River. We landed in the Country of Apamatica. At our landing, there came many stout and able Savages to resist us with their Bows and Arrows, in a most warlike manner, with the swords at their backs best with sharp stouts, and pieces of iron able to cleave a man in sunder [cut a man in two]. Among the rest one of the chiefest, standing before them cross-leged, with his Arwor eady in his bow in one hand, and taking a Pipe of Tobacco in the other, with a bold utreting of his speech, demanded of us our being there, willing us to be gone. We made signs of peace, which they perceived in the end, and let us land in quietness.
The English received in the Paspihe's response to the arrival of the English? Compare the Paspihe's welcome with that which the English received in the village of Kecoughtan (see paragraphs 3 and 4) and in the Raphanna village.  10. What does the response of the Raphanna's chief to the presence of the English among the Paspihe suggest about relations between the two tribes?  11. Why might the Raphanna chief have been displeased that the English visited the Paspihe village before visiting his?  12. Why might it have been advantageous to Powhatan to permit rivalries among the tribes in his confederation?  Excerpt 5  7] The eighth day of May we discovered [explored] up the River. We landed in the Country of Apamatica. At our landing, there came many stour and able Savages to resist us with their Bows and Arrows, in a most warlike manner, with the swords at their backs seet with sharp stones, and pieces of iron able to cleave a man in sunder [cut a man in two]. Among the rest one of the chiefest, standing before them cross-legged, with his Arrow ready in his Bow in one hand, and taking a Pipe of Tobacco in the other, with a bold utering of his speech, demanded of us our being there, willing us to be gone. We made signs of peace, which they perceived in the end, and let us land in quietness.	said Messenger, and gave him trifles [trinkets] which pleased him. We manned our shallop with Muskets and Targatiers [foot soldiers armed with shields] sufficiently: this said Messenger guided us where our determination was to go. When we landed, the Werowance of Rapahanna came down to the water side with all his train [followers] playing on a Flute made of a Reed He entertained us in so modest a proud fashion, as though he had been a Prince of civil government, holding his countenance [keeping his bearing]
11. Why might the Raphanna chief have been displeased that the English visited the Paspihe village before visiting his?  12. Why might it have been advantageous to Powhatan to permit rivalries among the tribes in his confederation?  Excerpt 5  [7] The eighth day of May we discovered [explored] up the River. We landed in the Country of Apamatica. At our landing, there came many stout and able Savages to resist us with their Bows and Arrows, in a most warlike manner, with the swords at their backs beset with sharp stones, and pieces of iron able to cleave a man in sunder [cut a man in two]. Among the rest one of the chiefest, standing before them cross-legged, with his Arrow ready in his Bow in one hand, and taking a Pipe of Tobacco in the other, with a bold uttering of his speech, demanded of us our being there, willing us to be gone. We made signs of peace, which they perceived in the end, and let us land in quietness.	— suggest about the Paspihe's response to the arrival of the English? Compare the Paspihe's welcome with that which the
11. Why might the Raphanna chief have been displeased that the English visited the Paspihe village before visiting his?  12. Why might it have been advantageous to Powhatan to permit rivalries among the tribes in his confederation?  Excerpt 5  [7] The eighth day of May we discovered [explored] up the River. We landed in the Country of Apamatica. At our landing, there came many stout and able Savages to resist us with their Bows and Arrows, in a most warlike manner, with the swords at their backs beset with sharp stones, and pieces of iron able to cleave a man in sunder [cut a man in two]. Among the rest one of the chiefest, standing before them cross-legged, with his Arrow ready in his Bow in one hand, and taking a Pipe of Tobacco in the other, with a bold uttering of his speech, demanded of us our being there, willing us to be gone. We made signs of peace, which they perceived in the end, and let us land in quietness.
Excerpt 5  [7] The eighth day of May we discovered [explored] up the River. We landed in the Country of Apamatica. At our landing, there came many stout and able Savages to resist us with their Bows and Arrows, in a most warlike manner, with the swords at their backs beset with sharp stones, and pieces of iron able to cleave a man in sunder [cut a man in two]. Among the rest one of the chiefest, standing before them cross-legged, with his Arrow ready in his Bow in one hand, and taking a Pipe of Tobacco in the other, with a bold uttering of his speech, demanded of us our being there, willing us to be gone. We made signs of peace, which they perceived in the end, and let us land in quietness.
Excerpt 5  [7] The eighth day of May we discovered [explored] up the River. We landed in the Country of Apamatica. At our landing, there came many stout and able Savages to resist us with their Bows and Arrows, in a most warlike manner, with the swords at their backs beset with sharp stones, and pieces of iron able to cleave a man in sunder [cut a man in two]. Among the rest one of the chiefest, standing before them cross-legged, with his Arrow ready in his Bow in one hand, and taking a Pipe of Tobacco in the other, with a bold uttering of his speech, demanded of us our being there, willing us to be gone. We made signs of peace, which they perceived in the end, and let us land in quietness.
Excerpt 5  [7] The eighth day of May we discovered [explored] up the River. We landed in the Country of Apamatica. At our landing, there came many stout and able Savages to resist us with their Bows and Arrows, in a most warlike manner, with the swords at their backs beset with sharp stones, and pieces of iron able to cleave a man in sunder [cut a man in two]. Among the rest one of the chiefest, standing before them cross-legged, with his Arrow ready in his Bow in one hand, and taking a Pipe of Tobacco in the other, with a bold uttering of his speech, demanded of us our being there, willing us to be gone. We made signs of peace, which they perceived in the end, and let us land in quietness.
Excerpt 5 [7] The eighth day of May we discovered [explored] up the River. We landed in the Country of Apamatica. At our landing, there came many stout and able Savages to resist us with their Bows and Arrows, in a most warlike manner, with the swords at their backs beset with sharp stones, and pieces of iron able to cleave a man in sunder [cut a man in two]. Among the rest one of the chiefest, standing before them cross-legged, with his Arrow ready in his Bow in one hand, and taking a Pipe of Tobacco in the other, with a bold uttering of his speech, demanded of us our being there, willing us to be gone. We made signs of peace, which they perceived in the end, and let us land in quietness.	11. Why might the Raphanna chief have been displeased that the English visited the Paspine village before visiting his?
Excerpt 5 [7] The eighth day of May we discovered [explored] up the River. We landed in the Country of Apamatica. At our landing, there came many stout and able Savages to resist us with their Bows and Arrows, in a most warlike manner, with the swords at their backs beset with sharp stones, and pieces of iron able to cleave a man in sunder [cut a man in two]. Among the rest one of the chiefest, standing before them cross-legged, with his Arrow ready in his Bow in one hand, and taking a Pipe of Tobacco in the other, with a bold uttering of his speech, demanded of us our being there, willing us to be gone. We made signs of peace, which they perceived in the end, and let us land in quietness.
[7] The eighth day of May we discovered [explored] up the River. We landed in the Country of Apamatica. At our landing, there came many stout and able Savages to resist us with their Bows and Arrows, in a most warlike manner, with the swords at their backs beset with sharp stones, and pieces of iron able to cleave a man in sunder [cut a man in two]. Among the rest one of the chiefest, standing before them cross-legged, with his Arrow ready in his Bow in one hand, and taking a Pipe of Tobacco in the other, with a bold uttering of his speech, demanded of us our being there, willing us to be gone. We made signs of peace, which they perceived in the end, and let us land in quietness.	12. Why might it have been advantageous to Powhatan to permit rivalries among the tribes in his confederation?
came many stout and able Savages to resist us with their Bows and Arrows, in a most warlike manner, with the swords at their backs beset with sharp stones, and pieces of iron able to cleave a man in sunder [cut a man in two]. Among the rest one of the chiefest, standing before them cross-legged, with his Arrow ready in his Bow in one hand, and taking a Pipe of Tobacco in the other, with a bold uttering of his speech, demanded of us our being there, willing us to be gone. We made signs of peace, which they perceived in the end, and let us land in quietness.	Excerpt 5
13. Why, after some Indians entertained the English cordially, would the Apamatica confront them "in a most warlike manner"?	[7] The eighth day of May we discovered [explored] up the River. We landed in the Country of Apamatica. At our landing, there came many stout and able Savages to resist us with their Bows and Arrows, in a most warlike manner, with the swords at their backs beset with sharp stones, and pieces of iron able to cleave a man in sunder [cut a man in two]. Among the rest one of the chiefest, standing before them cross-legged, with his Arrow ready in his Bow in one hand, and taking a Pipe of Tobacco in the other, with a bold uttering of his speech, demanded of us our being there, willing us to be gone. We made signs of peace, which they perceived in
	13. Why, after some Indians entertained the English cordially, would the Apamatica confront them "in a most warlike manner"?

14. What do the Apamatica demand of the English?
15. What might the English have signaled through their "signs of peace" that convinced the Apamatica to let them land?
Excerpt 6
[8] The thirteenth day, we came to our seating place [Jamestown] in Paspihas Country, some eight miles from the point of Land, which I made mention before: where our ships do lie so near the shore that they are moored to the Trees in six fathom water.
[9] The first night of our landing, about midnight, there came some Savages sailing close to our quarter. Presently there was an alarr given; upon that the Savages ran away, and we [were] not troubled any more by them that night. Not long after there came two Savages that seemed to be Commanders, bravely dressed, with Crowns of colored hair upon their heads, he came as Messengers from the Werowance of Paspihae, telling us that their Werowance was coming and would be merry with us with a fat Deer.
16. How might the establishment of Jamestown in the Pasphie's country affect that tribe's attitude toward the English?
17. What does the "alarm" suggest about the Indian's approach to the English settlement?
Excerpt 7
[10] The eighteenth day, the Werowance of Paspihae came himself to our quarter, with one hundred Savages armed, who guarded him in a very warlike manner with Bows and Arrows, thinking at that time to execute their villainy [make their deceitful attack]. Paspihae made great signs to us to lay our Arms away. But we would not trust him so far. He seeing he could not have convenient time to work his will, at length made signs that he would give us as much land as we would desire to take. As the Savages were in a throng in the Fort, one of them stole a Hatchet from one of our company, which spied [noticed] him doing the deed: whereupon h took it from him by force, and also struck him over the arm. Presently another Savage seeing that, came fiercely at our man with a wooden sword, thinking to beat out his brains. The Werowance of Paspiha saw us take to our Arms, went suddenly away with all hi company in great anger.
[11] The twentieth day of Werowance of Paspiha sent forty of his men with a Deer, to our quarter: but they came more in villainy than any love they bare us. They faine would have lain in our Fort all night, but we would not suffer them for fear of their treachery
18. How do these encounters with the Paspihae differ from the earlier "entertainment" the Paspihae provided the settlers? (See paragraph 5.) What might account for the difference?

20. Why might	the English suspect villainy on the part of the Paspihae?
21. Why might made that o	the Paspihae werowance offer the English as much land as they wanted? Can we be sure that he actually offer?
22. Why would	an Indian be interested in stealing a hatchet? What might the hatchet represent?
excerpt 8
f England to have y the way, we ca	If twentieth day we set up a Cross at the head of this River, naming it Kings River, where we proclaimed James Kings to the most right to it. When we had finished and set up our Cross, we shipped our men and made for James Fortune to Pohatan's Towre [sic], where the Captain went on shore suffering none to go with him. He presented the his place, with a Hatchet which he took joyfully, and was well pleased.
avage, Why sho	Savages murmured at our planting in the Country, whereupon this Werowance made answer again very wisely of a uld you be offended with them as long as they hurt you not, nor take any thing away by force. They take but a litt
23. How do you	u think the Indians might have interpreted the English cross planting ceremony?
24. What implic	cations does the ceremony hold for the Indians?

25. Why might it have n	nattered to the Indians that the captain went onshore alone?
26. How valuable would	I the gift of the hatchet be to the chief? What might it suggest to him about the English and the potentia of an alliance with the t local tribes in the Powhatan Confederation have had for befriending the English? Might they be would they need allies?
28. Why would local Inc	dians be concerned that the English were planting?
20. What does the word	owance's reply tell you about debates that were going on among the Indians who met the English?
29. What does the were	wantee a reply tell you about debates that were going on among the indians who met the English:
30. How does the wero to give them as mud	wance's characterization of the site of Jamestown as "waste ground" reflect upon the Paspihae's offer ch as they want?
vecumt 0
xcerpt 9 ne/July 1607
e Sun (which they worsl	ieth of July, the King of Rappahanna demanded a Canoe, which was restored [given], lifted up his hand the hip as their God), besides he laid his hand on his heart, that he would be our special friend. It is a general they swear by their God which is the Sun, no Christian will keep their Oath better upon this promise.
31. Compare the Englis	chmen's relationship with the Rappahanna to their relationship with the Pasphie.

Excerpt 10

August/September 1607

[15] It pleased God, after a while, to send those people which were our mortal enemies to relieve us with victuals, as Bread, Corn, Fish, and Flesh [meat] in great plenty, which was the setting up of our feeble men, otherwise we had all perished. Also we were frequented by divers [visited by many] Kings in the Country, bringing us store of provision to our great comfort.

32. Percy believed that the Indians spared Jamestown because God put a terror into their hearts. What other reasons might they have had?

33. Would you have predicted in 1607 that Jamestown would be a success?

34. At several points, the colony almost failed, whether because of starvation or sporadic war with the Indians. But ships with food and settlers arrived each time the colony was nearly empty, and over time diseases that were previously unknown in the Americas dramatically decreased the Indian population. Jamestown was eventually abandoned, but the colony of Virginia thrived with the adoption of tobacco agriculture and slavery. Why, on the whole, did Virginia survive?

35. Would you call Jamestown a successful colony? Why or why not?

Activity: Settlement - Two Different Views

Compare the conflicting views of Native Americans and Europeans regarding the early English colonies in the New World.

Glossary

timorous: fearful, shy doleful: sad, mournful

vehement: intense, passionate treachery: betrayal, disloyalty

Text

George Percy, Observations Gathered out of a Discourse of the Plantation of the Southern Colony in Virginia by the English, 1608 in Lyon Gardiner Tyler, ed., Narratives of Early Virginia, 1606–1625 (New York: Scribner's, 1907); full text online at American Journeys: Eyewitness Accounts of Early American Exploration and Settlement (Wisconsin Historical Society), http://www.americanjourneys.org/aj-073.

Image

John Smith, Virginia / discovered and discribed by Captayn John Smith, 1606, map, London, 1624 (detail). Library of Congress, Geography & Map Division, Call No. G3880 1624. S541 Vault. Courtesy of the Library of Congress.